

FORD PLANS TO BE BROUGHT HERE MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE TODAY

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Behold — the baseball fan.
May Allah increase his tribe.
To him, there is no god but base hits, and the scorebook is his prophet.

When his favorite player makes two out of three—or when the aforesaid favorite player is rated in the Big Six, the sun shines, the birds sing, and all nature is in ecstasy.

And when his team wins, his joy knows no bounds.

But when his team loses or his favorite player fails to break into the baseball column, he reflects upon the shallow pleasures of life, and wonders, after all, if life is really worth while.

Baseball is his meat—and when he finds someone sympathetic enough to listen to his pleas, he regales them for hours with his tales of the playing of his star.

Anxiously he picks up the paper at night, and with feverish finger traces down the box score, to find that the Oakland player, from Little Mumps, Arkansas, was credited with four times at bat, two runs, three hits, one assist, two put-outs and no errors.

And the house resounds with merrymaking.

Saturdays, Sundays and holidays he sits upon the rough bleacher seats, his nose growing more and more sunburned, his throat harsh and sore, rooting for his team.

When football season is in progress, he mourns because it isn't baseball.

At luncheon time he eats baseball.

Ditto at supper.

And ditto at breakfast.

Life to him is a horsehide covered sphere that cracks like a pistol when hit by a willow wand wielded by 200 pounds of beef.

Behold—the baseball player.

May all his children be ticket takers at the world series games with passes for their papa.

L'envoi: There is only one thing worse than a baseball fan.

That's another baseball fan.

VALENTINO DIED BROKE

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—UP—At the death of Rudolph Valentino in 1926, the film star's affairs were so encumbered by debts that there was not even money enough for his funeral. S. Geo. Ullman declared today in answer to questions that he was executor of the estate.

The idol of the screen was practically broke when he died, his home not his own and the only possessions he could claim were his dogs, his horses and one inexpensive automobile, Ullman set forth.

He has been suspended as executor by the superior court until after a hearing on June 20. Valentino's brother, Albert Guglielmi, and a sister Maria Guglielmi Strada, charge that Ullman made unwise loans and misappropriations.

In his answer Ullman said that from his own pocket he paid for the return of Valentino's body from New York and the impressive funeral that occurred in Hollywood.

He explained that he had undertaken the management of Valentino in 1923, and detailed subsequent legal difficulties, including Natacha Rambova's Parisian divorce from the sheik. He told of forming the Rudolph Valentino Productions, Inc., which paid him and Valentino $1000 a week each under a five year contract. Falcón Lair, Valentino's home, was then bought in Ullman's name and later transferred to the corporation, Ullman said.

NATION TO PAY HONOR TO WAR DEAD TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 29.—UP—The United States today will commemorate a day to its soldier dead. They flags and a handful of flowers will flutter over the graves of 650,000 soldier heroes as officials, widows and children visit again the cemeteries of the country, but 500,000 of these are the resting places of Americans shot down by brother citizens in the great Civil War.

Compared to the tens of millions lost by other nations in their wars, America's total foreign dead are not numerous but when only the 150,000 slain by a foreign enemy are listed their numbers probably would be called insignificant by other peoples.

Services Held
Consequently the martial honors paid tomorrow in parades and services all over the country, participated in by the president and the humblest folk alike, will lend not with bitterness on neighbor nations but with sad memories upon internal strife in the middle of the last century.

Dedicated to the memory of that war and carried on largely by survivors of its battles, the ceremonies each year take on a more pathetic touch. Out of 2,200,000 troops which served the government less than 60,000 remained alive last year. Most of them are ageing rapidly. Tomorrow they will march with feeble steps, their uniforms more faded, their medals worn sick by polishing.

More and more Armistice Day, on November 11th, which typifies the nation's participation in world affairs and a World War, is becoming the center of its martial celebrations.

Six Wars
In its history of 155 years, the United States has participated in but six wars listed as of importance by the War Department. Five of these were foreign wars but in only one of them, the World War, did the country's losses amount to more than a few thousand.

In several of them the dead might be considered only a "handful" compared to the figures of slain in wars of other countries.

In the War of Independence but 4000 soldiers died, according to the War Department estimates. In the War of 1812 with England less than 2000. The Mexican war nearly 100 years ago took a toll of nearly 13,000 lives and the Spanish-American war at the turn of the century about 7000 lives. World War losses are put at 126,000, more than half of which were from disease and wounds.

War Not Over
Among those who will be remembered also tomorrow but without the pomp of parade or the wreathing of their resting places will be 30,000 maimed and sick who lie in government hospitals for war veterans. An increasing number of these men are listed each year as they become older and less able to bar effects of their wounds.

More than half of those who are admitted suffer from mental or nervous disorders.

A bill has just been passed by congress to provide a hospital bed for each of those disabled in any war who is no longer able to provide for himself.

"The war is not over yet," one official said in pleading before congress for more funds to care for these men, "its marks are upon tens of thousands of our men and we owe it to them to ease their afflictions as well as to honor the dead."

On account of very bad weather when we started from Pernambuco, we had to leave behind three or four tons of fuel. For this reason it is doubtful if it will be possible to make a detour via Havana. The decision depends on the winds we meet enroute, so we cannot decide until Friday noon. Please make this known and acknowledge receipt."

Local Men To Go To Valley
Philip Hempler, and Alfred "Chick" Ahearn, two popular members of the Richmond Elks club left last night for a week-end trip to their homes in Grass Valley.

The pair are making the journey in Ahearn's new automobile and will return late Sunday night.

J. FLEAGLE HUNTED BY MEXICAN, U. S. AUTHORITIES

MEXICO CITY, May 29.—UP—The best detective brains of Mexico cooperated with two Colorado sheriffs and American consular officers today in searching for J. H. "Jake" Fleagle, alleged leader of a band of bank desperadoes.

Fleagle, identified from photographs as the man who Monday night robbed a dice game at Villa Acuna, near the Texan border, today still eluded capture, but Col. Casimiro Talamante, chief of the Mexico City detectives, was confident that he was unable to cross the border into Del Rio or other nearby Texas towns.

Talamante, who considered Fleagle a capture inevitable, broadcast a description of the hunted man in Spanish, while Detective Teodoro Gonzales of the foreign squad radiated the same description in English.

Search On
The two Colorado sheriffs, Lloyd Alderman of Lamar, and David Houghton, of La Junta, proceeded to Saltillo, State of Coahuila, where Alderman left his automobile enroute to Mexico City after receiving word of Fleagle's whereabouts.

From Saltillo, they expected to motor northward, driving first to Monterrey, Nuevo Leon state, before striking westward into Chihuahua, where Villa Acuna is located.

Fleagle must be brought to Mexico City before he can be returned to the United States. The U. S. embassy submitted extradition papers to the foreign office so that everything would be in readiness for the speediest possible removal of Fleagle to Colorado.

Gang Leader
Fleagle is wanted as the leader of a gang of bandits, who, in 1928 killed the cashier and assistant cashier of a bank at Lamar, and later slew the physician who attended their own wounds.

All other members of the band have been captured and are under sentence of death.

Mexican police officials have constantly aided Colorado authorities in the hunt for Fleagle. Until word was received of the dice game robbery, however, they had sought him at Pachana in the state of Hidalgo.

2 Tots Hurt In Accident
Two young children were painfully, if not seriously injured in an automobile accident at Thirty-ninth street and Macdonald avenue last night.

According to police reports the accident occurred between cars driven by Mrs. Leonard Cole, 430 Thirty-ninth street and Louis Smith, 11 North Macdonald avenue.

The two children, Maxine and Austin Huth of 860 Sixth street, were riding in Smith's car, according to police reports. Maxine, aged 10, sustained abrasions on the face and had several teeth knocked loose. Austin received abrasions over the eye and on the left ear. Both were treated at the Abbott emergency hospital by Dr. L. A. Hedges.

Smith also sprained his wrist in the accident and was cited to appear before Police Judge C. A. Odell Tuesday on a charge of failure to have an operator's car in his possession.

Maxine Huth was later removed to the Cottage hospital.

WEATHER
Fair and mild today and tomorrow; moderate west winds.

OAKLAND, May 29.—Three shiny, new revolvers of identical manufacture confronted employees of the Diamond branch of the Bank of America, 2154 Hopkins street, today, and three well-dressed bandits left the bank, with $1660.

With a gun pointed at each of them, Robert Marchman and Paul Duxton, tellers, and W. A. Luetze, manager, were forced to lie prone on the floor behind the counter.

"Keep your hands up! Don't make any foolish moves, or it'll be just too bad," the robbers said.

The bandits worked quickly and with smooth precision, scooping up $1110 in currency and $550 in silver from behind the teller's counter, backed out of the door and vanished.

MECHANICS 9 DEFEATED BY REFINERY

The Refinery nine had excellent batting practice yesterday afternoon when they vanquished the Mechanics 13 to 4.

The unfortunate Mechanics were continually bombarded by the hard-throwing Refinery boys. The Refinery succeeded in placing their hits nicely where there weren't any Mechanics, while the Mechanics netted but six hits off Peacock, Refinery chucker.

The Refinery started on the road to lifting fame in the very first inning by collecting six runs, Bartram, Lane, Johnson, Zimmerman, Bertoli and Autry were the run earners for the Refinery in that first inning.

The Mechanics attempted a comeback in the second inning, but Bonham and Soby were the only Mechanics who succeeded in crossing home plate in that inning. Bertoli collected another run in the third for the Refinery, and Carson of the Mechanics initiated him in the last of the same inning. Lamarr, Bartram and Armentrout continued the run idea in the fifth inning for the Refinery, and Soby retaliated in the same period. The Mechanics were unable to increase their score during the rest of the contest, while the Refinery hitters, Zimmerman, Bertoli, and Lane, continued to pile up runs for the Refinery.

Autry, Lane, Bonham, and Ellison were the sluggers of yesterday's game, all garnering nice, long doubles.

Peacock held the mound for the victorious Refinery and allowed six hits, four walks, and made five strike-outs. Kersten started on the mound for the Mechanics, but was replaced by Loveland in the fifth after allowing ten hits, one walk, and gaining two strike-outs. Loveland was nipped for five hits, two walks. He fanned three Mechanics sluggers, Kogler who replaced Loveland toward the end of the sixth, walked no Refinery players and allowed two hits.

Local High In A Division Of A. C. A. League

The athletes of Richmond Union high school will be required to meet the strongest high school competition in the northern part of the state during next year's football season as a result of the placing of the local school in a division in the Alameda County Athletic league.

The league has been divided into two divisions because a number of schools in the league were too small to compete with the larger teams of the eastbay. The teams in the A division, the fastest division of the league, are Richmond, Piedmont, Berkeley and Alameda high schools. The members of the B division are Centerville, Emeryville, Pleasanton, Livermore, and Hayward. The other school's in the A division are all larger than Richmond Union high school, yet "Maj." Hill, local coach, is confident that the Richmond boys will be able to make a strong stand next year.

The meat of the tuber is unedible, he said, being bitter, although the tuber, itself, looks very much like a sweet potato.

Native Sons To Meet S. F. Club

The Native Sons baseball team of Richmond will meet the first Jefferson club of San Francisco Sunday on the First street diamond in what promises to be one of the hardest played contests of the season.

Rogers will catch for the locals and DeBaere will do the pitching. The Native Sons defeated the Elks club last week-end, and the Jeffersonians are reputed to be a far superior team.

Sunday's game will be started at 2:30 o'clock.

FIREMEN NINE HIGH NINE WINS OVER SONS RECEIVES LETTERS

The Richmond Firemen gained their first victory of the Richmond City Twilight league season yesterday afternoon when they handed a 6 to 4 defeat to the Native Sons nine.

The Native Sons staged a determined battle against the fire fighters but the Firemen were still more determined that they should break away from the bottom of the league ladder.

The Firemen started off in fine style by collecting four runs in the first three innings, while the Native Sons went scoreless until this time. The Native Sons earned one counter in the fourth, while the Firemen increased their total by a run in both the sixth and seventh innings. The losers made a strong rally in the last of the seventh inning to raise their total to four runs.

Kamb did the chucking for the Firemen, allowing five hits, one walk, and gaining nine strike-outs. Viano twirled for the losers, and was nipped for nine hits. He walked four Firemen, and fanned nine.

The baseball team, which started out by losing three straight league games, came back to finish in a tie for third place. The following men received awards for baseball: Rogers, Bono, Lemon, Scarella, Rolino, Sanfilippo, Transue, Baxter, Viano, Rosano, Babich and Ball.

The B basketball team, although not in the league at the close of the season, also finished with a good average. Men who received awards are: Rollino, Sanfilippo, F. Wilson, E. Miller, A. Wilson and Carl Johnson.

Only two men of the track team were able to win awards. These two men were Dalton and Albert Dalton was considered the best quarter miler in the A. C. A. L. this year and Albert one of the best milers.

champion, one up in the sixth round, making the second day in succession he has conquered champions, as he put out Cyril Tolley, British amateur title holder, in the fourth round yesterday.

After today's fifth and sixth round matches were over only Jones and George Voigt of New York remained of the invading American forces for the quarter-final and semi-final round matches tomorrow.

Jones and Voigt are in the upper bracket and will meet in the semi-final round tomorrow afternoon if they win their quarter-final matches—Jones playing E. W. Fiddian, a dark-horse who has slipped into the seventh round almost unnoticed at champion among his victims, and Voigt engaging William Sutton, the Birkenhead oil worker who defeated Harrison R. Johnston of St. Paul, United States, amateur last year.

BANDIT HELD IN KIDNAP PLOT

CHICAGO, May 29.—UP—Sub-machine guns gave way to shot guns hidden in golf bags in the newest flareup today of Chicago gangland's bloody warfare.

What apparently was intended to be a murder turned into a kidnaping when a carload of desperadoes careened through a west side street with their unidentified victim screaming that he had been shot and was about to die.

Two watchmen heard shots, then saw the automobile racing toward them through an alley. Clinging to the running board was a man with a golf bag over his shoulder. The watchmen, Joseph Laurie and Adolph Vesselhoft, yanked him from the machine and he fell at their feet. From the golf bag tumbled a shot gun, with one shell exploded. The pseudo-golfer was identified as Sam Hunt, Capone gangster.

Police announced they would hold him as a hostage until the kidnaped man was released. Instead of finding the man, however, authorities feared they would come upon his body.

The kidnaping was believed to mark a recurrence of the war of extermination between Scarface Al Capone and his bitter rival for the beer trade, George "Bugs" Moran. Seven of Moran's men were murdered in the St. Valentine's day massacre two years ago. Since then frequent murders of henchmen of both chieftains have marked progress of their disputes.

DRIVERS SET FOR RACES TODAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29.—UP—The world's greatest racing drivers will send about one half million dollars worth of speed creations whizzing around the Indianapolis speedway tomorrow in the 18th annual Memorial Day automobile race.

For five hours and some odd minutes, the best of the 33 entrants will risk their necks roaring about the two and one-half mile brick oval to see which man and which man's mechanical steed shall wear motordom's most coveted crown for the next year. More than 160,000 racing fans crowded the city tonight. Many of them started the trek to the speedway grounds, five miles from the heart of Indianapolis.

Most rabid of the fans clicked through the turnstiles before sundown to be sure of vantage points. The gates will remain open all night.

Din of merry-makers defied all sleep except for those thousands who drove many hours and many hundreds of miles, with no place but the race grounds to rest the weary muscles and get long deferred slumber.

Many a halo was thrown about the 33 drivers and the 38 mechanics who will pound the bricks before what the management said would be the largest crowd ever to witness a modern sporting event.

No Records
Experts said there was little chance of any of the racers equaling the 101.13 miles per hour record of Peter de Palo in 1925. He shot himself over the 500 miles in a tiny, single seated Dusenbergs.

Two-man cars are required this year for the first time since 1922. Motors approximating stock specifications are in many of them. Four, six, eight and 10-cylinder cars are entered. Some have the front drive, some are enormous cars which look like sport roadsters, others are spidery little cars with just enough room for the mechanic to pump oil without getting in the way of the driver.

Most of the favorites in the betting are past winners. Among the prominent contenders for the $115,000 in cash prizes are: De Palo, Louis Meyer, Wilbur Shaw, Shorty Cantlon and Billy Arnold. The latter was the fastest qualifier in the trials.

The weather bureau predicted a perfectly cloudless sky and a cool day, ideal conditions for high speeds.

Hines Blames Cream Puffs For Arrest

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—UP—Things have come to a pretty pass when people can't eat cream puffs without being arrested and charged with being intoxicated, Johnny Hines, movie comedian said in the city jail today.

All his speeches were made after he and Mrs. Pauline Holbrook, 24, had been taken into custody by a police officer who saw Hines picking his companion up off the street.

"Drunk"? inquired the irate Hines. "Tch, tch, such a thing to say. It was cream puffs. We went to the home of friends. We had a glass of wine each and then we ate cream puffs. That's where we made our mistake. They weren't good cream puffs."

Of course the wine wasn't enough to make us intoxicated. But the wine and the cream puffs got into a terrible battle. Well, we were driving along and the door of my car fell open and Mrs. Holbrook fell out. I was just trying to help her back into the car when the officer drove up."

However, Patrolman D. W. Wilson of Wilshire division said that he saw Hines driving "like he was lookin' for somethin'," and then stop and attempt to lift Mrs. Holbrook out of the street. Hines and Mrs. Holbrook were released under bond.

MEMORIAL DAY

What shall we say
How can we pay?
Those heroes fought and died.
Yet we to pay.
A wreath can lay.
But then—
How can we pay?
What shall we say,
On this, their day?

To bow the head—
To bend the knees—
Those myriad angel guards!
They need no pay.
No words can say.
But then—
A flag will fly.
Another sigh.
It is this to die.
Ah no, she knows
No blood that flows
Can boast a life like that!
'Tis we that die
A mortal's eye
Sees not.
A word we say,
A wreath we lay
On Memorial Day.

BURNING UP SEEN BY CROWD

"Burning Up" Richard Arlen's first starring picture, which opened its second day run at the Fox-California theater last night to loud and prolonged applause from the audience. It is an all-around good thriller. Kids and grown-ups, young and old will find entertainment in this enjoyable clean-cut action-romance.

"Burning Up" is the story of a likable, ambitious young man, unwittingly mixed up with a group of ne'er-do-wells, chiefly engaged in crooked promotions. Lovely Mary Brian enters the scene and captures the boy's heart. Then he discovers the unethical and criminal actions of his business companions and their scheme for defrauding the girl's father of a large sum of money. How he defeats their plans and wins the girl is a thrilling story to which only the picture itself can do full justice.

Arlen is his own likable self in this picture. Those who have become acquainted with him in his recent hits, "The Virginian," "The Man I Love" or remember him from the famous epic, "Wings" will know what to expect. He is one of the most clean-cut young actors on the American screen, a hero worthy of mention in every part he plays. The cast includes four well-known and popular character men, Francis McDonald, Sam Hardy, Tully Marshall and Charles Sellon. The fact that A. Edward Sutherland, director of "The Dance of Life" and "Close Harmony," "Fast Company" and "Pointed Heels" made the picture is assurance of good wholesome enjoyment.

What! No Board For His In-Laws?

VISALIA.—Ordinary household cooking is a fair job for a wife and part of the bargain, but when it comes to running a boarding house for the in-laws, it's another matter.

That appeared to be the decision of Mrs. Elizabeth Hodges here, as recited in her complaint filed in suit for divorce from Otis Hodges.

Mrs. Hodges asserts that a few months after marriage they started living in a house occupied by her husband's brothers and she had been forced to act as housekeeper and cook for them.

Richfield Gas
LAUDED BY ARMY

SACRAMENTO, May 29 — Expressing their unqualified satisfaction with service rendered by the Richfield Oil company during the 1930 field exercises of the Army Air Corps here, air service officers today declared that "these maneuvers have taught us an important truth." This, they explained, was that the Air Corps in time of emergency can rely upon dependable civilian service, such as Richfield gave in the meet just ended, for speedy fueling and lubrication.

As a tribute to the dependability of the Richfield gasoline and the Richlube oils and greases which were used exclusively, officers of the Air Corps asserted that there wasn't a single delay on the start of any of the many aerial events.

"Despite the fact that we had no shops and that the planes were all serviced on the field with a minimum of attention, the ships performed perfectly, every scheduled start of formation flying took place precisely on time, and not a ship was even a half minute late."

Officers at Mather Field in making the foregoing statement also commented on the unusual interest evidenced by civilians in the army maneuvers. Chief in point of interest are:

High altitude flight of the pursuit squadron of 18 planes, under command of Capt. Hugh M. Elmdorf, this fleet reached a new record of over 27,500 feet encountering temperatures of 40 degrees below zero without any motor trouble whatsoever.

Night flights at low altitudes in bad weather under command of Capt. Harold M. McClelland were made possible by perfection of radio communication.

During the period from March 20 to May 5 the Army fliers covered approximately 1,500,000 "man miles" without a single accident. Much of this flying was in close formation and it is considered a tribute to the flying skill and to the leadership of the army personnel that such a record was established.

The Mather field meet, officers stated, was the largest ever staged in one place in the history of U. S. Army Air Corps. Despite the monumental task of servicing with gasoline and lubricants, that ran into hundreds of thousands of gallons, all officers agreed that Richfield cooperation and Richfield quality left nothing to be desired.

A Shannon Of Broadway

JAMES GLEASON is starred in "The Shannons of Broadway" which will be shown at the Fox California theater tomorrow.

AND SO another Memorial Day comes around, nor have we forgotten what it means . . . More poignant through the Great War with its fine young Americans who gave their lives for the Flag, May 30th will find us pausing from the swift tempo of the business and social world, to pay allegiance to the memories of Americans of all wars . . .

The ranks of Civil War veterans, sadly thinning to a feeble few, the stalwart veterans of more recent wars—these we will see in the usual Memorial Day parades.

But the things we will not see, is the Memory in the hearts of the millions who enjoy the sanctity and peace that was bought with blood—memory manifested only through our Memorial Day conduct.

Let us visit the graves of the departed warriors . . . Let us visit the graves of our own dear departed.

Memory is a National Obligation — Let Us Treasure It!

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Moores Marshall

There's NO Place Like Home!

THE most dangerous place—dangerous to life and limb, to say nothing of head and heart—is H-O-M-E.

The greatest number of injuries are inflicted by domestic pursuits. So it is set down in a statistical report just made to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company by no less than twenty-two visiting nurse associations—and so at last do we feel ourself vindicated! For we are one of those women—and now that the visiting nurses testify in the news to the existence of many, many more, we are justified in writing a piece about them and their hapless fate—whom everything in a home kitchen bits, cuts, bangs, bumps, burns or in some fashion lacerates. The visiting nurses call the bathtub the most dangerous spot in the house. Not most dangerous, we venture to say, for the house mistress who, unlike more fortunate members of the family, must spend a good share of her time in the perilous kitchen.

Crazy is to her pursuits—her "peaceful domestic pursuits"—which swell the casualty statistics of the visiting nurses to the point where they can report that, of the 6,835 non-fatal injuries treated in 1929, 46 per cent. arose out of the aforesaid "domestic pursuits" and only 45 per cent. (presumably including automobile accidents) occurred in public places.

The cookstove seems more dangerous than the car—to say nothing of the hazardous stipladder and the risky, beautifully waxed floor of home, sweet home. For other fascinating figures compiled by the visiting nurses show that falls at home last year injured 1,424 persons, as against only 1,342 who suffered from automobile injuries.

ALL who is the bright and shining mark for the slings and arrows of outrageous domestic misfortune? Who but the homemaker, since she is longest and most often under fire? Men leave home, to go to the office, to baseball games, to the golf links. Children leave home to go to school and the movies. Girls leave home—boys, also—to make moralists view with alarm. But Mother keeps the home fires burning—the gas stove, anyhow. At what deadly risk the visiting nurses now warn the world!

We'll say they're right! Despite our own comparatively limited encounters with home life—we escape to the office daily, while Olive or Winnie or Ada or some other dusky pearl of great price does most of the cooking, to say nothing of our husband's weekend culinary achievements in the beach bungalow—here are a few of the home hazards from which we—and many another woman—have suffered.

BURNS from spattering fat, when trying fish or pan-broiling veal kidneys and lamb chops.

BURNS from the handle of the saucepan we thought wasn't hot, from the flatiron we were using when we were taking the temperature, from the tea-kettle handle which lay on the side next the stove even, from using a kettle-handle, like its insides disintegrated.

BURNS from dishwater.

BURNS when we tasted the chicken soup to see if it were salt enough.

CUTS from small vegetable knives.

CUTS from large carving knives.

CUTS from a notched bread knife, when thrust through the hard, stale, toast-toasted heel of the loaf.

CUTS from any old knife at all, when it's in the sharp edge of an opened tin can.

Gouges from the can-opener.

Stabs from the ice-pick.

Broken nails from prying up the tops of cans.

Aching fingers from screwing off other tin-tops.

Blood-blisters from the hammer.

Wounds from the glancing screw-driver.

Bumps from electric light fixtures, from a glass-holder screwed to the bungalow wall, from a towel-rack ditto, from the edge of an open door, and from falling off a stepladder.

Jammed fingers from pushing up a swollen window-frame, from wrestling with a refractory bolt, from closing a drawer too quickly.

Bruises on practically every portion of our anatomy from practically every article within the four walls of home—ranging from a sharp-cornered bed-post to a sharp-ended rocker.

What we really enjoy about getting out a column is that it's not like cooking—an extra-hazardous occupation. Neither a desk nor a typewriter ever bites us! We feel so safe!

SOUVENIR

It takes so little
To make a girl's heart happy—
A canoe that neatly skins the stream,
A paddle that ripples musically,
A canopy of maples and of elms,
An audience of bungalows....

Then drifting, drifting, drifting,
A bit of poetry,
A stack of song,
A boy's voice teasing:
"Peechontas—Minné-ha-ha."

One of the most satisfactory products to keep on hand in the emergency pantry is canned salmon, for there is such a wide variety of ways to prepare it for serving. During this changeable weather it is wise to have on hand a number of emergency helps. For often when one has planned a cold luncheon the weather turns cold and rainy, and one wants to make a last minute change in plans. When in doubt about the weather, salmon either from the market or canned, is a wise choice, for it is delicious either hot or cold.

Summer 1930 Coat Is "Dated"

THIS IS A COAT WITH THE LONGER COAT, DESIGNATED AS A MORE WRAPPY MODEL

By Ann Roberts

WOE be to the female who has not fully realized the change in coat lines. If, blindly though jauntily, you don your last year's coat to saunter forth to the first summer occasion, you're going to have an awfully funny feeling. You might just as well pause now, understand the awful truth and do something about it, because sooner or later you'll have to strangle that last year's handsome piece, no matter how faultless its material.

That's one of the tragedies of this year's fashions—or its blessings. For who does not thrill to a new something, and certainly the poorest of us can scratch together a new wrap if it must be. This time we surely must.

To begin with, there is the flare. Where lies the genius whose imagination and clever handwork can make a straight coat flare? If you can't cut it off to a short coat you will have to Kiss it goodbye and start your whole coat life over again.

Pastels and Rough Tweeds.
Then, for this new summer coat, pastels, rough basket-weave tweeds and flannels are the things. Fascinating? Oh my, and how! They are detailed but they are tailored. They are feminine and they are smart. It seems as though we have been hunting in a daze for this perfect thing for ever so long—and here it is, bursting upon us. For the first time in years coats are interesting—not just necessarily something that every one else has, only perhaps, a shade of difference in the fabric.

If you can have only one coat for summer wear, choose the polo coat—in white. White flannel, the lovely, soft, pliable material is called. And if you are not a careful planner—that is, in matching coat to dress over a range of costumes—you are safe and smart always with this white coat, for it goes with everything.

Aspiring to membership in the pastel family has its own thrill, but then you must be certain that if you buy a lettuce green coat, for instance, you don't find yourself with a rose she could wear that very smart low, tan tweed top coat so faultless in every way along with that bright red hat and be so absolutely sure of herself? Then, if you have, take your medicine and learn your lesson right there. Your hats must "go" or the coat investment can be called a failure right from the start.

If you are doomed to one coat for every mortal occasion as long as the summer lasts, choose a yellow tan mixed material if you are one of the types for whom tans and browns do a heap of good—or a gray basket weave if you are out of that running. Then have either a yellow-brown hat or a gray one, as the case may be, and let your country dresses as well as your traveling ones follow those tones in general with unrelenting faithfulness, always remembering that white goes no matter what surroundings—it is called upon to take unto itself.

The femininity types wear jabots and capes but keep away from tailored lines and details or double-breasted models if they are stylish. After forty? Yes, forget the tailored pink dress on your hands and nothing to cover it when the weather is that way. You would have to have yellow dresses, lighter green ones, light browns, or white, and deny yourself all others unless you were going to have a coat of another color—in which case you could go into pink with pale blues or grays and yellows and all that.

Capes and Their Waywardness.
CAPEs are another newness, for the summer coats and country club coats have these as well as their town sisters do. One cape, two capes, three capes (the latter for the very young), and the bolero backed coats for those whose figures have broadened for the reason or for that. This bolero back comes down in a lowered line toward the back, subduing the hips most effectively and leading to that desired straight line of beauty. The jabot coats are good for this purpose, too, and those with wrappy collars that are well designed.

Have you ever been met on arriving in the country by some one of wealth and a car and wondered how

Beware Fatigue

BWARE fatigue, for it is a poison and an insidious one. It steals away the pink and whiteness of your skin and substitutes sallowness or a pasty pallor. It robs your eyes of their sparkle and your step of its spring. It causes the voice to become dull and monotonous and the wit to stale. It is, in a word, your charm's chiefest enemy.

Nearly every woman who works so hard nor play so hard that you reach the point of fatigue, if you can possibly help it. We know there are cruel jobs in the world and cruel forms of play, too, like foot races and rowing races, for instance. But we also know that there are many women who "go" until they drop. Voluntarily. Nay, with a sort of pride.

FRANCES OLIVIER

You know, the woman who leaves her desk or her stove, habitually drooping with fatigue, and of her own free will or for the lack thereof, is a pretty poor executive. Really efficient people try as far as possible to avoid the fatigue point. Why? Because of its decidedly had reaction. Moreover, as was pointed out earlier in this sermon, fatigue is well nigh fatal to the looks. Isn't that reason enough for any woman to avoid it? Better procrastinate, better lie right down on the job, better almost throw it up altogether, than let it rob you of youth, good looks and your own disposition. Fortunately such radical measures are not necessary in all cases. Overburdened housewives can call in the assistance of mechanical helpers, not to mention systems. And overworked office workers can yell for assistance, or fewer duties.

When none of these solutions is possible, fatigue can be avoided or at least greatly minimized by organizing short periods of rest to balance the strain of the job. A minute of complete relaxation now and then is of tonic value to any worker. A good stretch acts like magic. A hearty laugh renews one.

And "how about going to bed nights?" as the saying goes. Young ladies who work hard all day and dance half the night are inviting deliberately premature old age. Peppy young bodies may appear to stand for anything. They do stand for much, an incredible much, and then suddenly they fade, apparently without cause.

A great many cases of crow's-feet are due to nothing more than fatigue. Most of the flabby faces you see are fatigued faces. And nearly all the dull skins and dull eyes one meets are due directly to extreme tiredness—a condition that might have been prevented.

For the sake of your beauty, beware fatigue!

Folding the Bedspread

IF YOU are in the habit of hanging the bedspread over the foot of the bed at night instead of folding it and laying it aside, try the following method: Draw top of spread down to the foot of bed, making one fold; then fold both sides to center. This gives you two triangles meeting in a point at upper center. In that position draw it over the foot-board of the bed.

It will be perfectly smooth and there is no danger of creases and wrinkling or looking all crumpled in the morning.

Think It Over

By Alfalfa Smith

WHEN I was in college I took a two-year course in biblical literature to please my mother. As I approach the sunset of life I am pleased that I know so much about the Bible. One of the things I have learned is that we must use ALL our TALENTS.

I am reminded of this because I read the other day that a man had gone back into the advertising business after leaving it for ten years.

It is possible that you would go along faster if you used ALL your ideas as they come to you, and I know you would be a great deal better off if you did not hide some of your TALENTS under a bushel.

Flavored Olives

GREEN olives served in some households have a mysterious flavor impossible to analyze. The gentle art of treating the olive to a pickling process is a simple one to learn. As soon as you open the new jar of olives, pour off some of the liquid and replace it with mild vinegar, dropping sections of a garlic clove in among the olives. Recap the jar and set in the refrigerator until ready to use. This cure not only deepens the flavor and makes the olive seem more meaty.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

GOLDEN DAWN

 This story is based on Warner Bros. Vitaphone production of the play by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

SYNOPSIS

Fair-skinned Dawn, mystery girl, becomes the bride of the black god Malunghu, against her wishes. Her sweetheart, Tom Allen, is transported to England where he enlists and is with the colonial troops that capture, without bloodshed, the British Protectorate in East Africa. Shep Keyes, whip-wielding bully of the natives, had used a ruse to get Tom out of Africa. He hopes to intimidate Dawn by threatening to expose her to the natives as a white girl. Shep's plans are balked by the arrival of the British soldiers.

INSTALLMENT TWENTY-SIX

His words were, of course, a native prayer. But his refusal to accord it the customary singing delivery was his means of expressing his contempt for his fellow blacks. Eric was aware of his attitude, but Colonel Judson, unfamiliar with Shep's vagaries, merely looked at him dumbly.

"It isn't that—"

The Colonel's words were drowned by the dissonant "Ay-ay-ay-ay-ay" of the natives, a cry that rose like a tortured "Amen." Shep was quick to press his advantages. "De heat burns de jungle wit' fire," he screamed, feigning uncontrollable frenzy. "De streams are dry in dere beds!" he shrieked the natives.

"Succumbing to the frenzy, both feigned and real, all about him, Hasmail began to chant in shrill tones, each word a challenge. Waving his arms and salivating to an unseen god, he chanted:

"The mothers beat their breast and cry.
 Fathers dare the lions in their bush, thirst-crazed.
 Our children weep with swollen lips and die!
 Over all, the hand of death is raised!"

Hasmail's genuine distress, and his crudely effective phraseology rather horrified the whites. A murmur of sympathy rose from the veranda. But before the natives could discover that their plight was exciting pity, Shep signaled them to continue their observation of the rites.

"Have mercy on us!" he implored wildly.

Immediately the natives joined in with him.

"Oh, have mercy on us," they begged. "Have mercy!"

"Show mercy to us!" cooed Shep.

Again there rose the wailing "Ay-ay-ay-ay-ay."

Shep continued his exhortations. "Pray for water for de parched throats of our people. For de babies dat suffer and cry. And de men who die on de trail wit dere swollen tongues hangin' in de sun. Pray for water!"

In greater volume the natives' cry rose to amend his words. "Ay-ay-ay-ay-ay-ay!"

For several moments they sustained the shuddery harmonious note. When it died they stood silent, expectant. Eric slipped down the steps to Judson's side.

"He seems dangerous," he said.

"Listen, men of Africa," said the Colonel, quick to appreciate that they were likely to become unmanageable if he remained silent. "England is your friend. I, too, am your friend. We, too, suffer from the drought. We, too, wish the rain would come."

Hasmail addressed him sharply in surprise. "You wish the rain would come?"

"Certainly," returned the Colonel. "We wish it with all our hearts."

"If you wish it," demanded Hasmail unreasonably, "why you not order it?"

"Careful now," cautioned Eric in low tones.

"I order it?" repeated Judson testily. "I am no witchman!"

"Then you call keep the rain from falling?" said Hasmail.

"Certainly not!"

As if the Colonel's words confirmed their own doubtful suspicions, the natives upraised glad

HILL NAMED AS RECREATION DIRECTOR

town teachers. Until the announcement of the appointment yesterday the name of Hill had not been mentioned. The city council had previously recommended the appointment of George Miner, who has been acting as recreational director since the death of Seawright.

Letter Given
The announcement of the appointment was made prior to the meeting of the board next month. In order that applicants would have a chance to make other arrangements for employment, Helms said. It was also necessary that all possible time be allowed for Hill to organize his work before the starting of the fall term, the superintendent said.

The letter of recommendation, which will be read by the board at its next meeting, was announced yesterday by Helms to be as follows:

To the Board of Education, Richmond School District, Richmond, California:

Gentlemen: In accordance with your request, I am submitting my recommendation for filling the vacancy in the recreation department, caused by the death of the late Mr. Seawright.

After a very careful investigation of the several candidates, I submit the name of Major Ivan Hill, at present head of the physical education department for boys of the Richmond union high school.

Major Hill began his work here in July, 1920. By reason of his military experience, he commanded the cadet corps at the high school until its disbandment. He has very successfully organized and carried on the course in physical education for boys. He has been a very successful coach of the various athletic teams representing the high school. He instills a very fine spirit in his teams, enabling them to lose a game with the same graceful spirit in which they win. He teaches character as well as athletics, and his influence over the boys has been excellent.

With his knowledge of the local situation, and by reason of his wide acquaintance with the young men of the community, and by reason of the high esteem in which he is held by all with whom he has come in contact, I feel that he is eminently qualified to fill the position.

Very truly yours,
W. T. HELMS,
City Supt. Schools.

DEATH TOLL IN INDIA RIOTS MOUNTING

BOMBAY, May 29.—UP—Mob riots spread to the Calcutta district today as additional violence was reported in the Ranagun and Dacca areas. The week's toll of Indian and Burmese dead passed the 100 mark.

Three thousand workmen, infuriated at a change in the wage-paying system besieged and severely injured two European officials of the East Indian railway workshop at Lilooan near Calcutta.

A European inspector and sergeant lead a party of police in shooting their way through the mob and rescuing the pair. Five members of the mob were wounded, and the inspector and sergeant were injured by the bricks. The workmen set fire to three railroad coaches before dispersing.

100 Dead

The dead at Ranagun, in battles between Burmese and Indian dock workers since Monday were established at 100 or more, with at least 900 still on the injured list. Police at Dacca, where 14 were killed in street fights between Hindus and Mohammedans, found fresh trouble at the nearby village of Nawabganj. Heavily armed, they rushed to quell mob outbreaks at Nawabganj in which several Europeans, including Police Superintendent W. Cotton of Dacca, were injured.

Cotton, with a party of officers, had gone to Nawabganj to arrest Moslems who recently started a riot there. He was met by a mob which separated him from his party, snatched his revolver, pushed him into a ditch and beat him; J. W. Atkins, managing agent of the Dacca electric company, fired his one.

End Sought

Meantime merchant groups sought to end the British-Indian dispute which caused the launching of the present independence campaign and the arrest of the freedom leader, Mahatma Gandhi. The federation of Indian chambers of commerce and industry sent a letter to Viceroy Lord Irwin urging the government to invite Gandhi to a round table conference and issue a statement saying the conference is for the purpose of preparing a constitution granting India dominion status.

The letter said no peace was possible until the goal of dominion status was reached. It re-emphasized that Gandhi's arrest failed to subdue the independence drive and said there was no likelihood of the movement collapsing.

The letter was signed by the representatives of 22 important commercial organizations throughout India.

Parentage Of Child Decided

PORTLAND, Ore., May 29.—UP—The long disputed parentage of a five-months old baby girl was decided today when Circuit Judge Clarence H. Gilbert ruled that Miss Geraldine Watson, former stenographer of Phoenix, Ariz., is the mother of the infant.

In a lengthy opinion, Judge Gilbert said he was convinced that Mrs. George D. Schaefer of Portland, from whose custody the child was taken recently, "has unusual maternal affection, but her claim to this child cannot be based on parentage."

The two women engaged in a court battle here a few weeks ago, each claiming she was the mother of the child. The court found the infant to be a dependent child, and made her a ward of the court of domestic relations over which he presides.

Mrs. Ross reported the order has been assured co-operation of clubs and groups along the highway.

Putting the RICH In Richmond

How's business. The question is asked every day on a thousand street corners of this country and the answer is not always a cheerful one. Richmond is sitting prettier than most cities we know. It is generally admitted that the United States is passing through a trade recession, which has made its influence felt in all the basic industries, and most students of economics doubt if the upswing will begin until late this year. Cities that live on one industry, and cities that have no hope of attracting new capital in the immediate future, will simply have to sit tight and wait for the storm to blow over before they can enjoy a return to normalcy. Richmond is in a different class. Between the Filice and Perrelli cannery and the construction of the Ford Motor company plant, both of which will undoubtedly bring new and substantial payrolls here this year, the city of Richmond has a big chunk of new money that was not here before. Our other industries are conveniently diversified and are all operating. The new industries will simply add that much to what we had. It is therefore that in the face of a dull year in which other cities are practically without hope of immediate prosperity, the city of Richmond may easily enjoy the best year in all its history. Richmond's natural advantages are steadily putting the RICH in Richmond. Let's all do our part by supporting the
